

Shelter prospers on kindness of others

The Lowell Sun
Lowell Sun

Article Last Updated:01/01/2007 11:31:42 AM EST

Compassion, generosity, hope. The truest meaning of Christmas has been overwhelmingly apparent at House of Hope, a shelter for homeless families in Lowell. Again this year the shelter has been the beneficiary of big-hearted kindness from so many individuals, companies, schools and churches. This generosity has enabled our mothers to replace despair with wonder as they shared the magic of Christmas with their children. Such thoughtfulness from so many of our friends has enabled Christmas for the 18 families in shelter, ten families at New Hope Apartments and dozens of families who trust us for help. To all those who have been so kind and generous we extend a sincere thank you.

DEB CHAUSSE, Executive Director,

House of Hope, Lowell